Hi Melissa,

In my opinion, the Naloxone can be issued to trained law enforcement officers.

No prescription is needed.

My thought was that the NMDOH needed to distribute. Because DOH has the authority.

Thank you, Ben

Subject: question on law enforcement

Hello, Ben!

This is a question for you that has to do with our planned law enforcement initiatives ... I know we discussed at our meeting last week the option that George G. recommended and you preferred, that had the naloxone kits going out from the pharmacy, under prescription from the medical authority, to the officers.

We have run into some concern from our DPS colleagues regarding the idea of prescriptions being directed to officers - if you want to call me to talk I could give more detail ... but basically they are very concerned about what a formal prescription for naloxone will result in, in terms of medical record, for the officers. I have assured them that this is electronic record maintained by the pharmacy, and not shared with insurance companies or health systems, etc. But they are concerned.

We have a pretty high level conference call scheduled to take place tomorrow morning - and I am trying to line up all options to make sure we get to implementation - that is acceptable to our State Police partners and to you and the Board of Pharmacy - with that in mind, I have a question for you, too consider and offer any feedback: What are your thoughts on the possibility of pharmacy shipping the naloxone kits directly to the physician? And then the physician dispensing to the officers? Would the physician be required to issue formal prescriptions in that scenario?

Might you call me on cell to have discussion on this? I'm sure you are busy with a million other things - I am just scrambling to be sure that I can be prepared for call tomorrow. I thought I would also contact Steve Jenkusky, with the NM Medical Board, and get his take on the physician dispensing part.

I so appreciate any feedback/guidance you may have for me on this!

Best,

Melissa H.
